Welcome to Black Press Media!

Our company had its beginnings in 1975 when Black Press founder, David Black purchased the Williams Lake (BC) Tribune. Over the years, David and his colleagues acquired many other BC publications, expanding in 1996 to the Lower Mainland and Central Alberta markets. Currently there are 90 publications in Canada, most of which are weekly or twice weekly newspapers. Our growth through the 1990's and most of the 2000's saw significant expansion to the US where we operate in Washington state, Hawaii, Alaska and California.

Over the past ten years, Black Press Media has developed significant multi-platform digital editions and the growth in audience has been explosive during the past several years. Whereas our audience was once confined to a weekly or twice weekly print edition, we now have audiences who receive our unique brand of local news in a printed newspaper, on their desktop, laptop, mobile phone or tablet, in a high end community magazine or at a trade show event sponsored by Black Press Media.

We view ourselves as a hub of community information where our combined audiences are now larger than ever. We can target those audiences based on the data we collect and can serve it to any audience segment our clients request on these multiple platforms.

In a world where it is difficult to disseminate news that is factual, Black Press Media stands as a beacon of trust in local journalism. Our expert sales advisors can show you how your brand or business can benefit from advertising exposure to these large, local audiences. We are here, with you helping to make our local communities grow and prosper.
